TaskRunner Crack Free

TaskRunner is a complex software application dedicated to hardcore users who wish to automate a wide range of tasks on their computer, from opening a file and launching a program to shutting down the computer or cleaning browser traces. Automate tasks using an intricate application Before proceeding any further, it should be mentioned that casual users with no previous experience in task automation tools are likely to have a hard time getting used to this application since it has rich options and configuration settings. On the bright side, they are pretty self-explanatory and don't require help documentation. The interface looks rudimentary, making it obvious that the developer wished to focus on functionality instead of appearance. It's possible to create a list with as many tasks as you want, each with its particularities. Set up the task and all related details You can ask TaskRunner to run an executable or open a file, back up, download or delete data, monitor running processes or services, perform a system cleanup, or remind you of something important using notifications. Also, it can send emails automatically and ping an IP address, as well as log of, restart, stand by or shut down the computer. Depending on the selected task, it's necessary to go into details. For example, programs can be launched using command-line arguments. When it comes to PC cleanup, the tool can be asked to clear Internet Explorer and Firefox objects, such as history, cookies and temporary Internet files. Schedule reminders and use additional tools Reminders can be scheduled using emails, popup messages or sound cues. If you're interested in IP ping, you can specify the IP address or host name in the local network, along with the packet size and timeout. Tasks can run once or regularly, for instance every few days, at PC startup or shutdown. Additionally, TaskRunner is capable of recording its activity to log files so that you can later inspect the events. It has extra tools ready for monitoring emails, performing web searches using your default web browser, uploading files to FTP, and others. Taking into account its comprehensive set of options and configuration settings, TaskRunner should please power PC users looking for complete control over task automation. TaskRunner Simple, powerful and reliable TaskRunner is a complex software application dedicated to hardcore users who wish to automate a wide range of tasks on their computer, from opening a file and launching a program to shutting down the computer or cleaning browser traces. TaskRunner is an application that lets users automate as many tasks as they like on their computers, as well as run backup programs and schedule reminders. Everything from backup and remote access to system monitoring and protecting your computer is possible with TaskRunner. TaskRunner is free to download and use. It is a Windows application but does work on Macs and Linux. TaskRunner adds many features to the Windows Task Scheduler. Simply run the TaskRunner program and find the option you want. TaskRunner also includes several useful options to customize the settings according to your own needs, such as automatic logon and schedule reminder options. When you start TaskRunner, you will notice that the software presents a list of tasks on the screen. These are the tasks you can choose to run when using the TaskRunner application. With TaskRunner, you have many options for scheduling tasks. You can schedule these tasks to run automatically or at a fixed time. TaskRunner lets you choose between running a task once or at a certain time each day, week or month. Other options include how many times a task can run before it shuts down, and whether it starts up automatically each time the computer boots. TaskRunner is perfect if you want to run a task with the computer on a regular basis, such as when you perform a backup. Of course, you can also launch the task manually if you prefer. You can also schedule tasks to run when the computer reboots or shuts down. TaskRunner lets you specify how frequently these tasks run. You can also specify how many times each task can be run in a month, week or day. TaskRunner can check your email automatically each day. If you want to monitor your network to make sure that your online activity is properly hidden, TaskRunner can ping your IP address on a regular basis. You can also tell the program to run a task when the PC's network activity is logged on, or when the computer shuts down. The TaskRunner program has many more features that are useful for system monitoring, such as system restoration and online data backup. TaskRunner has options for you to customize the settings as you like, such as when TaskRunner should log in automatically. You can set a task to run at a specific time, or at a regular interval. For example, you can schedule your backup task to run once a month at 10:00am. TaskRunner
