Islam and the Catholic Church: A Study of the Imitation of the Practices. Hidayah and Bid'ah, Qur'an, Joseph Breant, Editor. 1993 from George Town, University of Michigan Library Collections.[Psycho-emotional disorders in urology]. Our knowledge of the psycho-emotional disorders in the urological field still remains rudimentary. This review is a synthesis of the current knowledge. The following conclusions are drawn: 1. In patients who have found a new mode of living, with major changes in their normal condition of life, the psychological stress is especially onerous. 2. If an acutely depressed state occurs, the patients have to be treated promptly, otherwise, they might be exposed to suicide. 3. Depression, arising from an undefined acute condition, is frequently found in patients with diagnosed tumors, as well as having a negative effect on the patient's life. 4. In general, the tumor disease has a greater impact on the life of the patients than does the treatment of the disease itself.

Stress shielding of orthopedic implants and soft tissues in and around the femoral bone tunnels in a rabbit model. Femoral tunnel fixation of anterior cruciate ligament (ACL) grafts in anterior cruciate ligament reconstruction (ACLR) is the most difficult aspect of reconstruction. Graft fixation or replacement of the anterior cruciate ligament is still a major challenge for surgeons. 1cdb36666d
