"At Swim School Southern Maryland, every student receives a ReadyTub for the dryland season. The students love the tubs as they do enjoy swimming more in and out of a tub than a pool. The ReadyTub is a wonderful pool accessory that has proven itself to be a reliable pool investment."– Diane Short, Southern Maryland Swim School "Thanks for making this tub available. You made it so the kids could enjoy the fun of swimming in the tub all summer. It is the first one I ever put together and I liked it so much I bought another one last year. Great product."– Tim Albin, Nacotee Residential Services "I love the ReadyTub. It is a lot of fun for my kids to jump in the tub. They like being in water and splash around as much as possible. We had one that lasted in our family for many years. We had it for my son's first birth announcement party. We used it as a sand box at a children's birthday party. My kids' grandparents loved it as a poolside tent. They loved it as a poolside shower, changing area. My kids have used it for mud baths and even to bathe their dogs. We built one for our next family and it has been a great product. They love it!"– Janet Albritton, Center Pool Campground "As an indoor swimmer, I can tell you that the ReadyTub is the best thing in the world. It gives our family hours of fun every week and the kids love getting into and out of it. I would recommend it to anyone that wants to have hours of fun with their family."– Tonya Singleton, Bath County Family and Fitness Center "We are hooked! We get in the tub to cool off after a hard day of work and it is the best feeling in the world. I love being in the tub. It makes the summer time fun for my family. We take turns being in the tub and we all like being in it.

Crack crackNovel composite nanofibrous scaffold: fabrication, evaluation and effects on neural tissue repair. In this study, a novel composite scaffold based on polycaprolactone (PCL) and electrospun polyacrylonitrile (PAN) nanofibers was developed for in vitro and in vivo neural tissue repair. Scaffold was composed of PCL nanofibers co-electrospun with PAN/cellulose nanofibers in a weight ratio of 2:1. The electrospun nanofiber scaffolds were evaluated for their morphology, stiffness and ability to promote proliferation and differentiation of neural stem cells (NSC). The results demonstrated that the PCL-PAN nanofibers showed the uniform and smooth morphology. The diameter of PCL-PAN nanofibers was 300-500 nm with an average pore size of 200-400 microm. Nanofibrous scaffolds with the appropriate porosity, pore diameter and pore interconnectivity are critical for growth of NSC. The nanofibrous structure not only provided sufficient substratum for attachment and proliferation of NSC, but also enhanced cell growth because of the active surface area. Furthermore, the electrospun nanofibers were found to facilitate NSC differentiation. The PCL-PAN nanofibers provided a suitable surface to capture and encourage the differentiation of neurons. Thus, this novel PCL-PAN/cellulose nanofibrous composite scaffold might be beneficial to neural tissue repair.[Comparison of the treatment of head and neck carcinomas using different radiotherapy modalities and the correlation of the results with the tumor stage]. There are many controversies regarding the optimal method for radiation treatment of head and neck cancers. The aim of this retrospective study is to evaluate the advantages and disadvantages of different radiation methods. The historical cohort included 1.448 patients with squamous cell carcinoma of the head and neck (n = 653), treated in the years 1987-1997. The tumor stage (UICC, 1987) was distributed as follows: T1 39.4 %, T2 35.1 %, T3 18.5 %, T4 2.5 %. The patients
