Snakebyte is a fast-paced arcade game that will bring back couch-based multiplayer and make your friends scream 'BYTE ME!'. Well, that was fun! Now that you've beaten the game, try the challenges, puzzles and mini-games! (Click image to view at full size) What is a 'Leaderboard'? When you start a game, you will see on the right the top position, then 'The Adventure Continues' and then a Leaderboard and a chart to the right of it. The Leaderboard is the global ranking of best times. You can click on any position of the Leaderboard to see who is at that position. You can then click on any player to see their current position and score. If you are close to a friend, you can try to score high on the Leaderboard, or even the best position on the Leaderboard! All you need to do is collect the bits and complete the current level before your friends. You can see your own high score, and so can your friends. You can challenge your friends! You can send them an e-mail telling them to try to beat your high score. This works both ways, so you can compete against friends, and they can try to challenge you! If you beat your friends' high scores, you get a bonus point! There are a number of players on the Leaderboard. But, how do you find them? If you are playing a game, click on your username, which will take you to the profile. The profile is the little window that looks like an eye (see image). Click on the icons in the bottom left, it will take you to your friends! If you click the '+' icon, you will get a list of friends to invite. If you are not playing, but your friends are playing, they will show up in the Profile, under the Friends section. If you get a game invitation, the game owner can tell you which device they are on. If you want to challenge a friend, click on the Friends tab and click on their username and then click on the icon to invite them. If you are on your phone, you can also challenge your friends directly through Snakebyte! Follow the instructions in the 'Snakebyte on iPhone' section. Notes: Snakebyte works on iPads, phones and other devices with Android and Apple apps.
