Forensic analysis of drug-related deaths--applications of toxicology to a new forensic context. The increasing involvement of law enforcement officials in the investigation and prosecution of cases where the circumstances involve the illegal manufacture and distribution of illicit drugs has led to a plethora of toxicological laboratories being involved in these investigations. In this paper, the toxicological methods currently used for drug analyses will be highlighted, with particular reference to drug-induced deaths where illegal drugs are at the root of the problem. The role of toxicology in the establishment of the diagnosis of death will also be discussed. The emphasis will be on how toxicology can provide information which will assist in the clinical and toxicological diagnosis of death. The study of death scenes is also discussed, and the potential contribution of toxicology to the identification of the cause of death in these cases is outlined. Barcelona are also willing to do business with Diego Simeone's Atletico Madrid in what would be a colossal coup for the Atlético Madrid coach, but would leave them looking increasingly short of targets for replacements with four key players all exiting this summer. Cristiano Ronaldo won't be going anywhere given the Portuguese international's terms, Alvaro Morata could be tempted to Manchester City, and there is no sign Koke is moving to the Nou Camp either, despite interest from Barcelona, while 'saved' by his contract at the Camp Nou until 2022, Antoine Griezmann has

Baku, Azerbaijan, May 12 By Ilgar Zakirlyov - Trend: The Azerbaijani Ministry of Emergency Situations sent a battalion of the National Guard to the Nagorno Karabakh region to help in extinguishing a series of forest fires. The battalion sent its troops to the region, located 110km south of Baku, to help out with extinguishing the fires. "The soldiers of the Ministry of Emergency Situations arrived to the area and started extinguishing the forest fires," press service of the Ministry informed Trend earlier today. The forests, located in the Garadagh and Likaber regions of the region, on the southeastern and southwestern shores of the Nakhijevan Lake, have been on fire for several weeks. Smoke rises from a fire near the Nakhijevan Lake, on May 9, 2017 in Stepanakert, Nagorno Karabagh, Azerbaijan. AP The army troops are trying to stop the fire and carry out preventive measures, to prevent its expansion. "Armed troops are working with environment protection groups to extinguish the fires," said the press service of the National Guard. A forest fire near the Nakhijevan Lake.
