You stand in the middle of a theme park attraction and sit in your car. The speed of the ride (movement) is dependent on your perceived speed. The speed of the car (movement) is dependent on your actual speed. Record the entire experience in 360 and virtual reality (VR). Do you want to have the theme park with you wherever you are? Experience the unique theme park feeling in virtual reality (VR). With the Coastality app, you always have the theme park with you! The Coastality app and all of its 360 videos can be experienced completely in virtual reality (VR). How does it work? Record the theme park ride in 360 and virtual reality (VR). You record your experiences at the theme park on your smartphone. The video is then compiled to one 360 and virtual reality (VR) video. The video can be experienced with our in-app browser and a VR headset (Nexus 5 Stereo Headphones, Google Cardboard, Gear VR, Oculus Rift, HTC Vive, Windows VR) or a TV screen on which the video is installed (Tablet VR). The Coastality app lets you experience the game in virtual reality (VR) in different ways. • Play the game in VR with a smartphone or tablet screen. • View the 360 and virtual reality (VR) videos in the interactive mobile application. • Watch and experience 360 videos on your mobile tablet directly in virtual reality (VR). Please note: • No experience is necessary for viewing and enjoying the 360 videos. All that is required is a VR headset. • The 360 and virtual reality (VR) videos are suitable for most smartphones and smartphones. • Due to varying image quality, it is possible that, in some of the 360 videos, you may see “motion blur” or parts that have been “frosted” (blurry). In some cases, the motion blur and frosting are dependent on the performance of your device. For best quality, we recommend using a VR headset with a high-quality screen and a powerful processor. • There are texts and colours that could trigger phobias in some of the videos. See the accompanying Content List for details. • The Coastality app does not feature photo images. • If you are interested in experiences that contain phobias, please download our Phobia Simulator or our horror house. • In addition to experiencing games and 360 videos in virtual

What’s new in Gladiator Guild Manager: Prologue:

Entirely Coded by Darkhall Source[1] The development team’s first goal with the game was to create a grand soundtrack. Things we’ll need... Stock notes[2] You can find a listing of the team’s progress in the Format section above and in the credits. Moderation note: a more accurate budget should be provided. This might also include a brief description on using the budget. For example: if it were a desktop environment it would be: [double 3A: KJV 1742][4] This is the period between Quick Start and Full Production. The budget is mid 14KUS and a sound engineer is hired. Other resources spent would include tests of playability, optimization, etc. After Budgeting, it’s assumed Development spent 90 percent of the budget. This includes coding. You may use this budget if you like. As Progress is made, Microtransactions will have their own budgets. OK, with the first real progress update of the game, much of the core team can start to relax for a bit. To start a few basics off though, we are here to answer some of your questions. The Resource List for the game has been completed, and allowing the three development teams to go back to work on art, UI and other aspects of the game. We need to move forward with those while artists and designers focus on the UI, Audio and Models. The resource list also includes: Coding, Art Assets, Java, Flash, Animation, UI, Level Design and Perfect World Services. This allows us to have more harmony on the teams. As developers get time to meet with artists and designers, we can make changes to the Resource List. Creating a Budget We all learned in school about Lean, or economies of scale. In the same way, if we build our first game this fiscal year, it will cost $100,000. In order to keep our costs lower this time, this fiscal year, we need to acquire 5x the resources we did for our last digital art project. Simply put, we want the game to cost no more than $150,000. To do this, we have put together a resource bill. The numbers in the column are in United States Dollars. The number with the designer name is the direct cost of that person, and the number with the game name is the total cost of all people that worked on the game. As Progress is MADE and as goals are TOSSED about

About This Game: Mankind is in its twilight. War, pestilence, and famine have ravaged the globe, and life in the cities that remain is a living hell. In the highlands of Scotland, the old ways are dying out. It is rumored that the long-dead Erin Myers still lurks in the hills, her body long-concealed in the mountain cave in which her heart beat its last. Perhaps Erin’s ghost lives, perhaps she sleeps. Either way, the secrets of her past and the purpose of her return will determine whether you live or die. She was a criminal. She was a monster. She was a creature who changed the world. What was she? Who is Erin Myers?” Key features The story of Erin’s demise: A long-buried secret comes to light - a revelation that will radically change the way you see the world. A living, breathing world: Explore an interactive, richly detailed pre-war Scotland on your hunt for Erin’s secrets. Traverse verdant hills, dense forests, and the blistered ruins of modern civilization as you try to piece together Erin’s past. Complex puzzles with multiple solutions: As you try to unravel the mystery behind Erin’s death, you’ll encounter a host of abstract and disturbing puzzles. Some will be challenging and will demand a great deal of dexterity and concentration. Others will be more subtle and will require you to listen to the world around you - your conversations with other characters, ambient sounds, the wind, the plants, your own senses. Original, musical score and sound design: A symphony of sound and music awakens as you enter the world of pre-war Scotland. Sounds of nature, people, and machines create a vibrant and rich universe that brings Erin’s world to life. Asymmetrical visual design: With one eye on the player, Your Thoughts: The Editor features a unique ability to allow multiple ways to retell the story of Erin’s death. In this way, the game allows the player to play in a variety of ways and to create a range of narratives. Easy to use, intuitive controls: The goal in developing Your Thoughts was to create controls that allow players to quickly create a narrative. In this way, the player can move at a comfortable pace while still experiencing the action and discovering the story of
