What's new:

Share Joystick Position: Generally, you're best off using two sticks, one for the movement controls and another for controlling your C.O.M.B.A.L. Units, which you can freely rotate to bring up any of the turrets. However, I personally use only one stick, and only use movement controls. If you need to use more, try out the C.O.M.B.A.L. Commander app. Mac Controls: This game comes with Mac controls built right in. You can use the Mac keyboard or the mouse as usual. Set Up controls: You'll need to hook up a PlayStation Controller. If you have a Dual Shock 2 or the PlayStation 3 controller, you should be all set. Otherwise, you'll need to hook up a Dual Shock wireless controller to your Mac or Windows computer, and register it with the game before you can even begin. (More on that here.) Lethal Weapon: This game is controlled mainly by the number keys on the PS3 pad. From 0001 to 0100, you control the movement and units, and the rumblings indicate how many times you have shot/hit something. From 0101 to 0000, you control the fire control. All grenades are also grenade launchers. There are no Infiltrators and they do a lot more damage than Looters, so ignore them. It may sound bad, but it means that if you get a good C.O.M.B.A.L. team, the game will be relatively easy from here on in. Controllers: This is something I discovered a few days ago, so it wasn't discovered in time for me to include this in the review. As soon as I buy a wireless controller for the Playstation 3, I'll be sure to get around to writing this section. Gameplay: This is the part where you'll start to realize how mentally draining it can be to play RTS games. You need to understand that at this point, one guy can neither quagmire nor snipe you. You need to manage both at the same time. There are four different ways to control your C.O.M.B.A.L.s: You can select them individually (which is the fastest method), or you can assign them to keys, in which case they'll accompany any joystick button you press. If you

Rime is a platform game that lets you explore the world to find your way home. Story: The story follows a boy named Rime as he ventures into a mythical world of magic and adventure. A simple demo. Main features: - 3d graphics (kinda 2.5D) - Gamepad and keyboard support - high levels of customization - lots of items to collect and recipes to discover - multiplayer support - skill tree - dynamic lighting and weather - local LAN support (Optional) Community Suggestions: If you have any community suggestions or feedback please let us know. We would love to make this game the best it possibly can be! Please use the Discord. About the game: This is a 2.5D game that plays similar to Spelunky. Gamepad support is recommended and should only take about 5-10 minutes to set up. Our website is a bit outdated and the forum isn't set up for this yet. If you have any questions on our development feel free to e-mail us at support@goonathon.com Featuring: - 23 worlds and 100 levels with almost endless gameplay possibilities! - Customizable controls and a randomized inventory. - Rangy, twangy, and wacky weapons to slice, maim, and dismember the enemies! - Dynamic, real-time lighting and a dynamic, procedurally-generated world. - Tons of arcane collectibles to be found in each and every dungeon! Game-play: Right. Left. Up. Down. On. Off. Controls: Weapon: Hold (W) to use your weapon. Press (A) to equip/disassemble your weapon. Press (B) to find back to the ancient spirit world. Shield: Use (X) to equip/disassemble your shield. Press (Y) to use your shield. Ranged: Hold (C) to target an enemy with your weapon. Press (Z) to target an enemy with your ranged weapon. Jump: Press (Q) to jump. Shield Wall: Hold (V) to activate the shield wall. Weapon Tips: Stone Weapons Hold (A) to equip and use a stone weapon. After you have reached an upgrade level the stone weapons will break at the next upgrade level. Ranged Weapons Hold (C)
