I am using the value attribute to change the value to null. Then I need to display the value of the variable. I have tried following: The HTML of the text box is: Then I tried to use following code to get the value of the variable: var value = $('input[name="post_value"]').val(); Then I change the value of the variable as: value = null; Then I need to get the value of the variable in text box. I tried the following code: $('post_value').attr('value', value); Please suggest a solution for this. A: This can be done by setting the innerHTML and preserving the ID/name like var value = $('#value').attr('name="post_value"]').attr('value', value).prop('id', 'post_value').prop('name', 'post_value').prop('innerHTML', value).focus();
