datetime.datetime.now() print only the date and not the time I have read this post as well as multiple posts on Stack Overflow. I am trying to print the date and time to a file from a separate python script. import datetime import os #set some date and time variables x = datetime.datetime.now() y = datetime.datetime.now().date() z = datetime.datetime.now().time() #Create and open the file with open("datefile.txt", "w") as thefile: thefile.write(x) thefile.write(y) thefile.write(z) When I run this script, it only prints the date from the datetime.now() function. 2018-10-30 00:00:00
