Spanish DownloadQ: Rxjs Subject start emitting after other Subject in subscribe gets completed I'm using Subject to emit some data and it works fine. But I wanted to emit data from different observables depending on a certain condition, so I created another subject to pass the other observable in subscribe. It works fine except for one thing. The problem is if it gets a value from other observable it has to emit the next value in subscribe but it doesn't let it. See the code:

export const
showDataFromOtherObservable
= new Subject(); const req = {
  url: '', type: 'GET', headers: {
'User-Agent': 'curl' } }; const res = await fetch(req); const data =
  await res.json();
if(data.data.isOwner) { this.show DataFromOtherObservable.next(d ata); } else { console.log('not owner'); } this.showDataFromOth erObservable.subscribe(data =>

{ let data = [...data];
  data.push(['New Data!!']);
this.dataService.insertData(data);
this.dataService.getData(data);

Here I get the data from the api when it's a owner and I get the value from the subscription inside the if condition. When I'm not in the condition I get the error
TypeError: "data" is not iterable.
I've tried to stop emitting it inside the subscription, but it still get the data from the subscription.
